

Open Educational Resources (OER)

are high-quality, openly licensed materials that you can download, edit, and share for free.

Faculty at community colleges across Michigan are adopting and customizing OER to better meet their students' needs—and to teach in new and exciting ways.

“OER have freed me to teach the way I want to teach. I am now using the latest research and various media to make the material relevant, exciting, and powerful.”

– Lisa Blackford, Northwestern Michigan College

“OER aren’t just about the tremendous cost savings for students—they’re about having the flexibility to better teach the subject matter and being more comfortable in doing so.”

– Ann Sebeck, Bay College

95% of students rate OER as the same or higher quality than traditional textbooks.*

Michigan community college students have saved nearly $5 million in textbook costs over the past year, thanks to OER. That’s enough to pay a year of tuition for 900 students!

Find high-quality OER for your course at www.oercommons.org/hubs/mco

*Based on a Spring 2018 survey of 546 Lansing Community College students who used OER.

Based on average yearly tuition cost of $5,559 among Michigan community colleges.

